STUDENT COUNCIL HELPED TO PLAN HONOR SYSTEM

Point System in Operation at Bristol High Bids Well
To Future

THIRTY POINTS MINIMUM

Activity in Many Endeavors Necessary to Win The Coveted Emblem

The new honor-point system established to give recognition to activities in Bristol High School through an accumulation of points awarded in various activities is now in operation.

The system as it has been worked out by the student council in conjunction with the faculty gives recognition to studies and extra-curricular activities, some of which formerly received no recognition.

The minimum number of points required in order to win the much-coveted trophy, a felt emblem to be worn upon the sweater, is 30. The emblems will be presented to groups of the students probably in June and February of each year. The first emblems were presented to eight of the members of the February graduating class who received diplomas this week. The octagon-shaped pieces are of the school colors, cardinal and gray, with the high school seal in the center, surrounded by the words "Bristol High School, Bristol, Pa."

The following points are to be given if the method of awards continues as in operation at present:

Scholastic standing: First pupil, 10 points; second, 8; third, 6; all pupils receiving an average of 87 per cent or more, 3 points.

Athletics: Football (boys), 6; basketball (girls), 6; hockey (girls), 4; baseball (boys), 4; track (boys and girls), 2.

Student Council: Members, 2; officers, president, 6, and secretary, 4; committee chairmen, 2.

Managers of all sports, 2. Publicity manager, 2. Rambler staff, Editor, 5; advertising manager, 3; circulation manager, 3; reporter, 2.

Class show, 2 pts.; high school show —leads, 5, chorus, 2; show committee, 1 to 3 points (amount to be determined by principal with committee chairman).

Girl Reserves: Officers, 2; committee chairmen, 1; best three workers, 1 point each.

Class officers, 2. Perfect attendance, 2. Orchestra, 3. Debating, 2.

Legion Cadets Enjoy Fourth Annual Banquet

Sixty-two attended the fourth annual dinner of the Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 352, American Legion Cadets which was held in the Legion Home here last night.

The affair began at 6:30 o'clock and the cadets and their friends were seated at three long tables in the Legion Home.

Harry Burbank acted as toastmaster and numerous speeches were made.

Post Commander George Croner, and former cadet commanders, Bolton, Griffith and Thomas L. Stewart all complimented the cadets upon the wonderful progress which they have made and urged them to greater efforts in the future.

The menu consisted of chicken with all of the trimmings and was served by Mrs. Benjamin Ahart and a corps of ten women.

One of the features of the evening was the presentation of sergeant and corporal stripes to Wallace Keeler, Irwin Scheffer, William Halpin, Vernon Werline, Russell Marshall, Arnold North and William Rinn.

These presentations were made by Harry Burbank who made very impressive remarks in his speech of presentation.

Thirty-two boys were initiated and eight whose names were drawn from a hat were given the entire degree and branded with the "electrical iron." The numerals "32" were carried home by the boys who consider it a great honor to be thus distinguished.

There was a surprise in store for Mr. Burbank, too, who during the evening, was presented, as a token of appreciation from the boys, with a $5 gold piece. Mrs. Ahart was presented with a pocket book. Lieutenant Colonel Joseph Winslow made the presentation.

Splendid Musical Program at Bristol M. E. Church in the Evening; Visiting Musicians

The Basti Band, the foreign mission society of the Bristol Presbyterian Church, is to take the leadership of the morning service of the church school tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

The group will present a short program during the opening worship of the school.

Rev. S. Brooks Knowlton, pastor, will preach at 11 on the question "Can Jesus Maintain His Authority?" taking as his text Matthew 28:17, "All authority has been given unto Me."

There will be a soprano and alto duet, "Come Unto Me" (Händel's Messiah), by Miss Grace Shaver and Mrs.
C. I. Bowen. In the evening the pastor will speak upon "On Making Excuses," II. Samuel, 23:20, "Benaiah . . .

the son of a valiant man . . . went down also and slew a lion in the midst of a pit in time of snow."

The Senior Christian Endeavor Society will meet at seven. Miss Doris Johns will be the leader.

The teachers and officers of the Church School are reminded of the district meeting of the Bucks County Sunday School Association to be held this Tuesday evening at the Eddington Presbyterian Church.

The Ladies' Union will meet Monday at eight o'clock. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at seven forty-five.
Boy Scout Troop No. 1 meets Thursday evening at 7:30. Junior Christian Endeavor meets Friday evening at seven.
There will be no choir practice this week.

YOUTH SURRENDERS; WANTED FOR ROBBERY

Conscience-Stricken After Alleged Hold-Up Three Years Ago

POLICE CHECK HIS TALE

LANGHORNE, Feb. 14.—A youth who described himself as John Sturges, 19 years old, of 614 East Thompson St., Philadelphia, surrendered himself to the State Police yesterday and claimed that he was wanted in connection with holding up and robbing the restaurant of Samuel Hedge, situated on the Lincoln Highway, at Oakford, three years ago.

Sturges told the authorities that he had become conscience-stricken recently and that after his father had threatened to inform police of his part in the crime he decided to give himself up. Corporal Daniel Deane and Trooper Christ of the Morrisville State Police, are checking up on the youth's story.

Sturges said that early in the winter of 1927, when he was but 16 years old, he met two unidentified youths who suggested that they hold up Hedge's restaurant, then situated at Oakford near South Langhorne. Armed with revolvers the trio went to the place and stole $300 from the proprietor. The spoils was divided up, each receiving $100.

Early yesterday morning Sturges boarded a train for Bristol and going to Police Headquarters there he said he was wanted for robbery. As the alleged hold-up occurred outside the Borough of Bristol the case was turned over to the Morrisville State Police. The prisoner was taken to the Morrisville barracks and questioned.

Police are now trying to locate Hedge, who moved from Oakford some time ago. He formerly made his home in the Greenwood Apartments, Foulkroyd avenue, Frankford, but recently removed from there. State Police had a sub-station in Langhorne three years ago, but all the troopers were at that time sent to the soft coal fields, where a strike was in progress. Police, therefore, say they have no record of the robbery.

Sturges said he was arrested as a suspect in a robbery in Philadelphia a year ago and was later discharged.

Valentine Season Suggested At Elks' Charity Ball

The Spirit of St. Valentine was suggested at the annual Charity Ball of Bristol Lodge, 979, R. P. O. E., in St.
Mark's auditorium last evening.

Many couples enjoyed dancing to the strains of music dispensed by Roy Seagraves and his Showboat Orchestra.

The decorations of the large auditorium presented a most attractive appearance, the color and tastefulness being admired by all.

Nancy Lee, a singer of note, gave several selections, which were highly appreciated by the dancers.

Chauncey Stoneback, Jr., headed the committee in charge of this affair which is an annual one, and looked forward to by many.

SHOOTS SELF IN LEG

Accidentally shooting himself in the calf of the leg, Joseph Peper, 1116 Beaver street, is suffering with lacerations and contusions. The man was treated at the Harriman Hospital this morning shortly after the accident occurred, and was then taken to his home.

RETURNS HOME

Improved in health Harry Halpin is now home after being treated at the Harriman Hospital.

Miss Charlotte Chamberlain Hostess to S. S. Class

Miss Charlotte Chamberlain, of Walnut street, entertained the members of her Sunday School class of the First Baptist Church, at her home on Thursday evening. A pleasant evening was spent playing games and prizes were given for the pinning of the tail on the donkey, and to the girl who obtained the most hearts in the "heart game."

The winners were Carroll Stewart and Esther Tomlinson for the donkey game and Mary Armour in the heart game.

At a late hour, refreshments were served to the guests in the dining room, which was prettily trimmed in pink. Favors were pink baskets filled with candy. Those present were: Mary Dugan, Mary Armour, Marie Pern, Carroll Stewart and Esther Tomlinson.

SIXTY-TWO CASES ARE LISTED FOR CO. COURT

Criminal Term Opens Monday; Many Cases of Serious Nature

ONE IS FOR MURDER

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 14.—Sixty-two cases are listed for trial at the February term of criminal court that opens here Monday morning. The trial list for the next term is filled with cases of a more serious nature than usual and is conspicuous by the absence of a long list of drunken drivers for trial.
Only three drunken drivers are listed for trial during the February term due to the fact that a number of others pleaded guilty at special sessions of court since the last criminal term.
This is the smallest list of drunken drivers for trial in three years.

Twenty-two defendants are charged with either felonious entry, larceny or receiving stolen goods. Fifteen others are charged with violations of the liquor laws including possession, transportation, manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes.

One murder case is listed for trial.
It is that of Charles Haney, of Yarde-ley, the Trenton potter who shot and killed his wife, Mary, twenty-six and then made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide.

Six defendants are charged with involuntary manslaughter. Among the defendants charged with theft of chickens is Sterling D. Johnson, better known as "Chicken" Johnson, who at one time lived in Buckingham Valley and who served a term in the Eastern State Penitentiary for chicken stealing.

The complete list of cases as furnished by District Attorney Arthur M.
Eastburn is as follows:

Felonious entry, larceny and receiving stolen goods: Mitchell Ryzinski, Sterling D. Johnson, Charles Purdy, William C. Wornock, Peter Derini, Tito Proca, Stanley Wolschinsky, Charles Kivlin, Charles DeLoer, William De-Beer, James Gross, Ethel H. Zoll,

Petzoldt, Frederick W. Fargo, Stanley Pearl Wilson, Paul Kruger, William Szechowitz, Oscar Ryely, Barnardo Parola, Hilda Kurtz, Samuel Yaffe, Rose London, George Bennett, John Coyle.

Operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor: W. S. Gilliland, John Winter-stein, Eldas Pigott.

Murder: Charles Haney.

Aggravated assault and battery, assault and battery: James Kowmas, Charles Wilson, Frank Kramer, Helen
L. Griest, William Roeger, Clarence Fretz, Guy Reinheimer.

Assault and battery with intent to kill: Helen L. Griest, Guy Rein-heimer.

Involuntary manslaughter: Esther Estella Beans, Henry Jones, Jeremiah G. Richard, Jacob Hertzog, William Huckel, Joseph Diskonet.

Arson: Walter Rogalski.

Fred Lasprella.

False pretense: Bert L. Shontz, Joseph W. Auman.

Forgery: Kempton Franke, Wallace Franke.

Fornication and bastardy: Clyde Phillips.

Robbery: Clarence Fretz.

MACHINES CRASH

A machine driven by Albert Van-born crashed with another at Monroe and Farragut streets, at about 11:30 last night. Vanborn was placed under arrest and upon examination by a physician was pronounced under the influence of liquor. He will be given a hearing today at one o'clock.

NEW HOPE TAX RATE WILL REMAIN SAME

Borough Council Fixes Tax Rate at 11 Mills On Dollar

OTHER COUNTY NEWS

New Hope borough council at its monthly meeting determined that the borough tax for the year should be 11 mills on the dollar of assessment, the same as it was last year.

A proposal was made by an engineering firm to build a town water system, using gravity flow. The estimate of cost was $75,000. For some time a water system has been agitated for New Hope, but the council considered that it is impossible to have such a project undertaken at this time, as the borrowing capacity is too high to warrant a further bond issue.

It was suggested that possibly private interests might consider such a system, in which event the officials would give all the cooperation possible.

Contract for the collection of garbage and ashes was given again to William Johnson for the year, his bid being $260.

Memorial services for Miss H. Emma Kirkbride, a retired school teacher, who died at Morrisville a of Mrs. Edward Sutterly, 252 West Bridge street. Francis Willard Day was also observed by the Union and the program centered about the life of Miss Willard and Miss Kirkbride.

Wife, Son and Waitress Were Eye Witnesses to Slaying — Woman Says Husband Was Never Given A Chance — Police Believe Same Trio Held Up and Robbed Norris- town Gas Station Proprietor.

Police of Bucks, Philadelphia and Montgomery counties today are combing the countryside for three armed bandits who climaxed a night of degradation in the Philadelphia suburban districts by robbing and killing Edward Gamils, 45-year-old proprietor of the Blue Spruce Inn, near Trevose, Bucks county, early today.

Gamils was brutally shot down by one of the trio after he had handed over the day's receipts amounting to between $450 and $500.

Earlier in the night the same trio, police said, held up and robbed the attendant at a gas filling station near Norristown.

Following the slaying they sped into Philadelphia in their high-powered machine and were reported to have turned into the Frankford district about seven miles from the scene of the shooting.

Gamils was standing in the restaurant room of his inn located on the Lincoln Highway between city line and Trevose, when the trio drove up in front of the roadhouse about 1.15 a. m. One took his place at the door of the building, while one remained at the wheel of the car; the third entered and held up the proprietor, shot him down after seizing a roll of bills from his hand. Then the trio sped away toward Philadelphia.

MRS. PROPHET TO BE TRIED ON FEB. 24TH

Mother of Slain Man Doesn't Want Woman's Life

BROTHER-IN-LAW DOES

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—Mrs.
Clara Grace Prophet, widow of William F. Prophet, will go on trial for the murder of her husband February 24th.

This was announced yesterday by the District Attorney's office shortly after the jury in the case of Harold E.
Williams, 25-year-old market gardener, had doomed him to the electric chair.

Both Williams and his sister, Mrs.
Prophet, have confessed their parts in the death of Prophet while he slept in his home on N. Park avenue, November 22, last.

Mrs. Prophet after her futile attempt to aid her brother on the witness stand spent Thursday night in prayer in her cell in Moyamensing Prison.

That her prayers for her brother had been in vain she did not know until her mother, Mrs. Clara Simington, arrived at the prison during the afternoon.

Mrs. Simington told her Harold had been condemned to die in the chair because of the murder Mrs.
Prophet has confessed she plotted.

The announcement of the verdict disturbed her not a bit, Mrs. Simington said later. She appeared to take the findings of the jury stoically.

Relatives of Prophet were in accord with the findings of the jury yesterday.

There was a difference of opinion, however, as far as the widow of the slain man is concerned.

Robert Prophet, 5025 Tacony street, Frankford, a brother of the slain man, expressed the hope that his sister-in-law also would die in the electric chair.

Out in Detroit, Mrs. Mathilde Prophet, the aged mother of William Prophet, stretched forth the hand of mercy toward her daughter-in-law. She could not bring herself to feel that her son's wife should die in the electric chair.

The elderly woman, on the verge of a nervous breakdown as a result of her son's murder, left this city in November and went to the home of another son, Frederick Prophet, at 1704 Green street, Detroit, to forget.

"I came to Detroit to try to forget," Mrs. Prophet said, "but I don't seem to be able to do that easily. I have trouble sleeping at nights. I am highly nervous."

"From the first, I could not understand why this awful thing had to happen. I don't know what they mean by a hidden motive for killing my son."

"Harold Williams certainly got what was coming to him. But I'm not so sure that Grace Prophet should be condemned to die. She is equally gui-ty, and ought to be punished, but I don't know that I would like to see her go to the electric chair."

Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frederick Prophet, suggested that if her son's widow were sentenced to the chair, the mother might forget the affair more quickly.

The older woman deliberated before replying and then she said: "Yes, I guess that's true."

The slaying was witnessed by Gam-il's wife, Mrs. Cecelia Gamils, 37, their son, Gustave, 18, and Miss Helen Mekonk, 17, a waitress. All furnished the State police and Bucks County Detective Russo with detailed descriptions of the slaying and detectives asserted the clues given them will lead to the arrest of the killer within a few hours. The slaying was one of the most cold-blooded in the history of Bucks County.

Gamils handed over a roll of bills, the day's receipts and the gunman accepted them, then stepped back, took deliberate aim and fired one shot. The bullet struck Gamils near the heart, causing almost instant death.

The inn is located just outside the city and the trio sped away, racing down the Lincoln Highway into the Roosevelt Boulevard, passing two police men, two blocks away from the scene. The police failed to stop them as at that time they were not aware of the killing. The machine continued down the Boulevard and turned over into Cottman street, other motorists said, heading in the direction of Frankford.

About four hours earlier the same trio, according to the description given to the police, held up a gas station at North Main and Ridge Pike, near Norristown, robbing Joseph Pidgeon, the attendant, 34.

A first hand account of the shooting at the inn was given to police by Mrs.
Gamils who was standing beside her husband when the slaying took place.

"I was standing at the cash register taking up the receipts when a man entered," Mrs. Gamils said. "My husband was on my left; he had just given me $10 in change. I had the money in one-dollar bills in my hand when the man entered. He whipped out a blue steel pistol and told us to hand over the money."

"My husband reached into his hip-pocket where he had nearly $500 in bills and started to hand it over.

"The murderer grabbed the money and fired. My husband fell against the counter; he didn't have a chance."

Mrs. Gamils described the bandit as being about six feet tall, unkempt and unshaven, wearing a gray cap and white sweater under a leather jacket.
He was about 25 years old and weighed about 175 pounds, she said.

It is believed that when Gamils put his hand into his hip pocket to get out the money to hand to the bandit that the bandit was of the opinion that Gamils was drawing a gun and that this provoked the highwayman to shoot the restaurant proprietor.

The Blue Spruce Inn is an attractive looking place on the Lincoln Highway, just below Street Road. A small building is along the Highway proper and in this meals are served to motorists.

Quite a distance to the rear of this is a large house and other buildings where tourists are accommodated overnight.

NEW ZEALAND'S QUAKE

Distressed by her own drought sufferers and unemployed, the United States yet asks what it can do for the immediate relief of the victims of the earthquake in New Zealand. Our misfortunes have brought hunger, homelessness and anxiety, but to New Zealand has come death and destruction in company with the other three.

Although hardly to be compared in destructiveness with the Japanese temblor of 1923 or the Italian quake of 1930, the Napier quake takes rank among the major seismic disturbances of the time. It was accompanied by heavy loss of life and property damage running into the millions of dollars.

The stricken area is crushed by the catastrophe, which came at a time when all Australasia is heavily hit by business depression and unprepared for such a blow.

Mankind seemingly must reckon on earthquake as part and parcel of its existence. They strike without notice and seem to be no respecter of persons and places. Areas long believed out of the temblor circle have, in recent years, been shaken with varying degrees of severity.

Science advances many theories but apparently knows very little about earthquakes and their causes. Upon one thing all scientists and lay minds agree, and that is that Mother Earth is not as stable as her children would like her to be.

FERTILIZER

Those who believe it would be a fine thing to put the government into business competition with its own citizens and expected the Hoover administration to go along with them on the proposition were wrong.

President Hoover does not approve of the communistic scheme concocted by Senator Norris to set up the Federal Government in the fertilizer and power business at Muscle Shoals. And because he does not Senator Norris accuses him of favoring the "power trust."

The fact that Senator Norris finds fault with Mr. Hoover in the matter of handling Muscle Shoals will be taken by the average citizen as proof that the President is on the right track. Nothing would so gravely damage Mr. Hoover's prestige as a political economist as praise from the Nebraska insurgent. The chief executive's sound faith and common sense would be instantly challenged if he should be found in the company with the Nebraskan.

When the United States government loses its capacity for protecting the public interest it will be time to put the government into the manufacturing and distributing business. And when that time arrives the people will not balk at Muscle Shoals, nor will they stop there. They will turn over to the government the railroads, radio, telegraph, telephones, all public carriers, and nationalize the farm, industries and all other forms of business. If that comes to pass it will be because men like Mr. Norris have convinced the people that they are incompetent to run their own business affairs and prefer to be government clerks instead of independent business men. Then Washington will become a greater Moscow.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER LI

MACKIMMONS lowered his voice. "Gee I don't know what to think. She's got both legs broke and she's running an awful high fever. Maybe she's out of her head. But she lets on that her husband ran amuck or something and knocked her off, and then knocked somebody else off. I can't make out who."

Pete whistled. "Slim said, 'Attempted murder, eh? Well, it don't surprise me none. He give her enough dirty looks, and he had plenty of alibis fixed to make it look like she keeled over by herself. . . . Cripes, it's just like a detective story!'"

"Are you sure he was dead? Better let me go back and look for the body!" Pete put in excitedly. "Nuts! He's dead as a mackerel. You stick with us. We've got to get her out, and it won't be easy with those broken legs. And then we've got to look to see if there's anybody else. Leave the dead man alone, he'll keep."

The Shock.

MacKimmmons decided upon a blanket stretcher and a line from the boulder. But first they'd have to do a little first aid and splint her legs.

Pete thought he could do it if he had the right kind of sticks, and something to use for packing. . . . maybe the tall grass down by the river. While MacKimmmons and Slim were rigging the stretcher Pete took the best flashlight and went to look for his grass and sticks.

He wasn't gone very long. He came running back, breathless and empty handed. "Gosh, fellows! There's a man down there. . . . I'll over him. Gave him an awful 'bout. But I guess he won't care. He looks dead, all right. 'It's say, you're going to feel bad about this, MacKimmmons. . . . It's about his name. . . . the fellow you work with—Decatur!"

"Decatur! Decatur. . . dead!" With one leap MacKimmmons was off the trail thrashing about in the underbrush, forgetting even his flashlight.

MacKimmmons had found his friend when they got to him. But Roger Decatur was not dead. He lay back in MacKimmmons' arms, and managed a grin. Pete's kick had brought him to.

"Where did you fall from?" "How did it happen?" "Are you hurt bad?"

They asked a dozen questions but he just croaked. "Water. . . . swallowed a whole peck of dirt. . . . wonder if I can walk."

By this time Anita's cries were loud and angry.

"For Heavens sake, what's that?" Roger asked.

"Oh, some old dame fell off the high trail," MacKimmmons said.

"Say can you two fellows get her? If you think you can, I'll stay here with old Decatur. . . . Then we can figure how we'll all get out of here."

"You might. . . . tell me what happened," Roger said when they were alone.

MacKimmmons began hesitantly. "Well, I don't rightly know. I was coming through the low trail when I saw this bird and his horse, both lead near the river. Darned if I can figure how the fool went over there. It's about the one place on that high trail where a horse COULDN'T slip. Still, there they were. . . . I was beating it for a telephone when I heard this woman crying. I don't know whether she's nuts or not. She. . . . shucks. . . . here they come!"

Roger lay back in MacKimmmons' arms and managed a grin.

Either they've gagged her or she's worn herself out at last. First time she's been quiet in two hours!"

The woman looked like death, but when they laid the improvised stretcher on the trail near Roger she reached a hand toward him and said "Thank you for trying to help me. . . ."

For a moment her helplessness touched them, but almost instantly it passed. "He'll pay for it!" she sobbed. "I won't lift a finger to save him!"

The men moved uneasily. She'd have to be told he was dead. . . . MacKimmmons opened his mouth to speak, but she drowned him out:

"I don't care who knows it. . . . the whole world. . . . He tried to kill me. . . . to marry her. . . . oh! I can't hear it. . . . oh. . . . but she won't go free, I'll see she suffers too. Write her name down. Nancy Hollenbeck of Piedmont. . . . Oh, why don't you help me? I'm so. . . . so SICK!"

"Decatur's out again!" MacKimmmons cried. "Get some water. . . . no, let me hold it. . . . oh, gag that woman, I can't stand that crying—make her shut up."

"Shut up, lady," Pete commanded.

Anita's sobs died down to a whimper.

"I'm all right, Mac," Roger said at last. "I didn't go out really. . . . just a. . . . a pain. . . ."

Breaking the News.

"Let's get out of here, then!" Slim was anxious to start back.

"Pete and I can carry the litter with the lady, and Mac can hold Decatur on a horse if he thinks he can stand it. . . . think you can make it as far as the road, old man?"

"I don't know about that. We don't know how bad he's hurt," Pete cut in uneasily.

"Oh, I'm all right. I can make it. Only before we go we ought to get this lady's story straight. It's going to mean trouble if. . . ."

"I guess you don't understand," MacKimmmons interrupted gently. "Your husband is. . . . well, that is. . . . He found he couldn't quite say it."

"You tell her, Slim!" "Well, you see, madam—"

Anita held her breath. Roger Decatur lifted his head from MacKimmmons' supporting shoulder. "Let me talk to her, fellows. I'm in on this. I'm afraid"

"Why Shouldn't a Murder Story be Warmly HUMAN?" . . .

Winifred Van Duzer wanted to know.

So she wrote the story of "Bim" Martin, a lovely and breezy girl fresh from school who found herself absorbed in finding news for her Dad's paper in sleepy Kingcliffe on the Hudson. And with solving a baffling murder mystery when the news came! The characters in this compelling story are real, recognizable—human, as are all of Winifred Van Duzer's creations. You have never read so thrilling a love story, with the excitement of a detective thriller thrown in!

Why Commute?

Why travel back and forth to your employment, which is here in Bristol, when such desirable dwellings are to be obtained here at such reasonable rents? It will pay any individual to investigate!

Work Where You Live and Live Where You Work.

If you are employed in Bristol you should live here. It will be less expensive and there are numerous other advantages derived from making your home in the town where you are employed.

You will save many hours a year which are now spent in traveling and you will have more time with your family.

The saving in money will also be considerable. Add to that which you are now paying for rent the amount which you spend in traveling back and forth to your employment here. You'll be surprised at the total. Rent a house here at a moderate rental and bank the difference.

Houses.

Comfortable dwellings, well situated and at moderate rents are to be found in that portion of Bristol which is immediately adjacent to the P. R. R. passenger station.

These houses make ideal homes and consist of six rooms with bath.

Conveniences.

They are heated by hot-air furnaces with a direct pipe leading to every room. They are lighted with electricity and are equipped with sewer, municipal water and gas.

Each room is well lighted and yet the space devoted to windows is not excessive.

Front porches are another attractive feature as is also a small rear yard where children can play in safety away from the perils of traffic.

Houses such as these would rent for considerably more in any city, where the conveniences would not surpass those offered here.

Inn Keeper Shot Down
By Three Armed Bandits

Inn and stole a cash register, cigars and cigarettes, and a slot machine, sometime early Wednesday. Later in the day authorities investigating the robbery confiscated another slot machine, overlooked by the burglars.

When Edward Gamils, manager of the inn, went to the place at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, he found a window forced and the inside ransacked. The cash register was valued at $500. Eight boxes of cigars, 15 boxes of cigarettes, and the slot machine were also taken.

Corporal Deane, of Morrisville State Police, and County Detective Russo, were detailed to investigate, after police had been notified. When they examined the interior for clues, they found a slot machine still on the premises. They promptly confiscated it, and indicated they would prosecute the inn owner.

Today the same State police and Detective Russo were called to probe the shooting of Gamils.

able at the Bristol High School for meritorious work, other than athletic activities, for which letters were awarded. The instituting of the honor point system adds incentive for more activity along all lines of endeavor, and the pupils are thus able in their earlier high school career to display the awards thus gained. Exceptionally active pupils will find it possible to secure the emblems as early as the second year of study.

The system has been under discussion and in the work of formation for the past year and teachers and student councils worked with equal interest in the matter.

It is thought possible that later points will be given for activities outside of school, possibly partial support rendered by the student to his or her family, attendance at Sunday School, or other phases of endeavor.

Britain's Golf Sextette

By HARDIN BURNLEY

GLENNACOLLETT - WHO LOST TO MISS FISHWICK IN ENGLAND.

HELEN HICKS - WHO SHOULD GIVE DIANA LOTS OF COMPETITION!

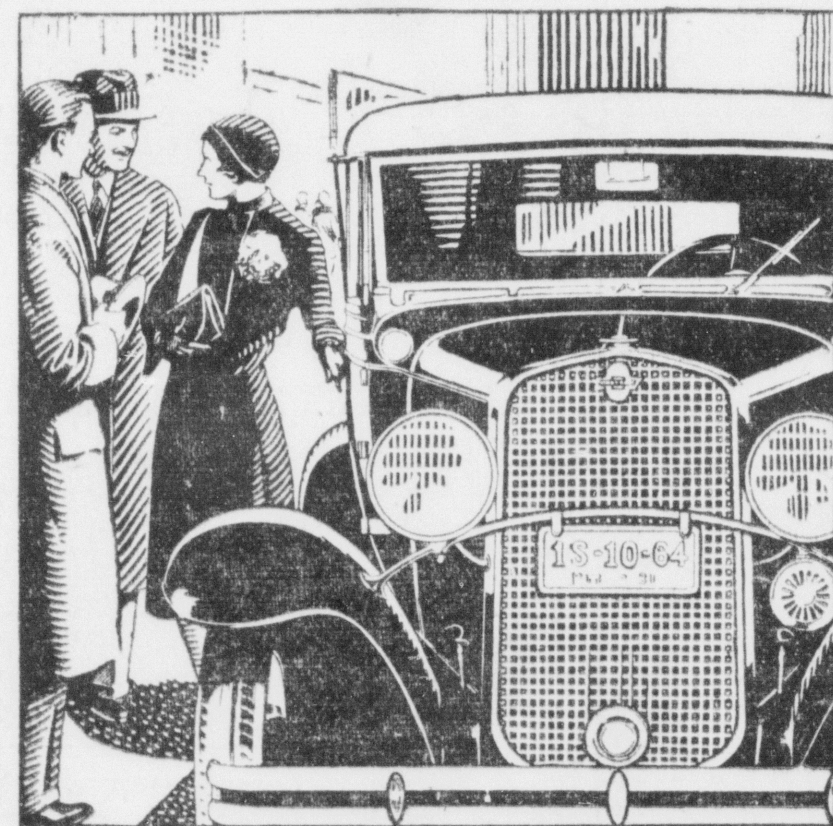

FLORIDA, now approaching the zenith of its gala winter season, is welcoming its usual big quota of glittering celebrities and the many who always flock where such G. C.'s go. As is the custom, boxing may again dominate the sports scene despite hard times and political angles which often threatened the annual "big light" at Miami. At this writing, matches have not been finally clinched. By the time this semi-Carnegie, the White Whale, should be beached on Miami's ample shores; while Jimmy Maloney, who holds a Boston decision over the Italian giant, Mickey Walker, Johnny Risko, and Tuffy Griffiths will be training "neath Florida palms. Besides, Champion Max Schmeling and Bill Stribling are also working out there as part of the boxing ballyhoo. The fistic cards, rival shows, are scheduled for late this month and March 15, unless the hatchet is buried by the rival promoters and schedules changed. However, while Florida is stressing its fisticuffs and pro golf, a far different and more polite sports element is to visit Miami and Palm beaches soon and they will be accorded the most sociable of all welcomes. The visitors are Diana Fishwick, British woman's golf champion, and five other charming links experts, all of whom expect to enter the Florida championship at Palm Beach, starting next Monday and ending on Friday; the South Atlantic tournament at Ormond Beach, Feb. 24-28, and the Florida East Coast, March 3 to 7, at St. Augustine.

Miss Fishwick, an outsider in the British championship last Spring, went through the match play undefeated and won the title from a fine field which included Miss Glenna Collett and several other of the best U. S. linkswomen. On Jan. 28, she, Betty Dixperkin, Kathleen Garnham, Marjorie White, Jessie Firth and Vera Haycock sailed from Southampton for a brief visit to South America. They intend to play as individuals and not as a team, it was announced.

If Camera & Co. have not exhausted or cracked all available photographic plates, Steve Hannegan, Larry Smits, Kent Watson and other of Miami's exploitation talent are now readying their lenses to flood the country with alluring pictures of those more than fair British golfers.
